MUDDLETOWN, U.S.A.

Muddletown. Thank Heaven! For if there were, this is how things might have happened there:

It was a fine spring morning when the citizens of Muddletown went mad. They were tired of the war, with all its regulations and controls and interference with old-fashioned American individualism. They threw the war out of the window, along with War Bond buying, rationing, price controls, wage stabilization and gas conservation.

ered up their war bonds, went down to the local bank, and cashed them in. They drew all their money out of their savings accounts. Then, loaded with cash, they headed ades.

Capt. Jack Potts who is with the U. S. Ninth Army in Germany is mentioned in "Over the River" an article that is given a prominent position in the current April 28, 1945, issue of Liberty.

The article was written from the diary of Howard K. Smith, CBS war correspondent, and covers the thrilling first hours of the American army's offensive across the Roer River, Germany, which marked the beginning of Germany's end.

Assigned to the 405th Reg.ment of the 102nd Infantry Division spearheading the crossing of the Roer River on February 22, Smith first came in contact with Capt. Potts at an artillery observation post in Roersdorf, in the shattered attic of a three-story house.

Smith wrote: "Capt. Potts of Corsicana, Texas, the regiment's front-line artillery observation why the hell I stay out in this if I don't have to. Now that I think of it, it does seem rather silly. I am no hero, every minute of this has been torture to me. But also it's fascinating."

"Counter-Attack," a Columbia picture starring Paul Muni with Marguerite Chapman and Larry Parks. Running time: 83 min-

HOLLYWOOD - On the whole, "Counter-Attack" is a good idea well executed. It is a story of a Russian paratrooper (Paul Muni) and a girl partisan (Marguerite Chapman) who are trapped with a group of Nazis in the bombed cellar of a Russian factory. factory.

The paratrooper battles sleep and German cunning to retain control of the situation. He also bargains with an enemy officer for military secrets, each think-ing his own troops will rescue There are digressions from the central theme, most of them extraneous. For instance — a heroic Rin-Tin-Tin-like dog unnecessary

 B^{UT} when the picture sticks to theme of Muni vs. the Nazis theme of Muni vs. the Nazis in the cellar, it is exciting drama. Particularly excellent is a scene in which Muni and the Nazi officer (Harro Meller) try to wrangle military plans out of each other. It makes a gripping scene, but it is doubtful if any soldier would be divided on the control of the control would be stupid enough to reveal secrets to the enemy under any such circumstances.

There are no doubt other incongruities in the picture, but I will vouch for one detail. Muni is pictured as a soldier who enjoys reading the dictionary. I actually encountered one such individual in the army. Happily more restrained than usual, Paul Muni gives a fine, studied performance. The rest of the cast is good and the other occupants of the cellar are as intriguing a bunch of Nazis as the Donath, as a glib-tongued corporal who says he is a college professor, is magnificent.

"Fury in the Pacific," produced by the U. S. Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force and released through the War Activities Committee of the motion picture industry. Running time: 20 minutes.

HERE is another must from the 11 government. It is a graphic story of the invasion of Peliliu and Anguar islands.

The picture shows vividly what

The picture shows vividly what an attack on a strongly held Jap-anese island is like. We see scorched bodies in enemy pill-boxes, a line of naked prisoners, a runaway preferring death to surrender. But there are two sides to war. The picture also shows a wounded American drop-ping from a file of marchers ping from a file of marchers, corpsmen stumbling up rugged terrain with a soldier on a stretcher, American wounded and charity, grossed $3,900.

Lt. Hogan, former Texas pro, showed the best golf for the 14 holes played. Based on his performance up to that point he would have had a 33-34-67 for the full 18 holes. Crosby and Hope wound up even, both getting two birdies, and conceding pars for the last four would have had 73's. Dutra's theoretical card was 69; Babe's 71, and Miss Jameson 80.

President Calls Meeting Military And State Leaders

WASHINGTON, April 23-(A)-

WASHINGTON, April 23—(P)—
President Truman summoned the secretaries of state, war and navy, and his military leadership to a conference this afternoon.

The White House did not disclose the occasion for the meeting, which was set for 1 p. m., CWT.

In addition to the three cabinet members the President called in Admiral William D. Leahy, his military advisor; Gen. George C. Marshall, array chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations.

Court's 5-4 opinion, which decided the frist treason conviction ever considered by a tribunal.

Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which chief Justice Stone and Justices Black and Reed concurred.

Cramer was accused of helping two of the eight Nazi saboteurs who landed from submarines on the east coast in June, 1942. He was sentenced to 45 years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 by the strict court.

Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations.

Stimson, the first to arrive, entered the White House at 12:56 p.m. (CWT) three minutes in advance of the president's return from lunch at the Blair House.

A minute later Statithius, smiling at reporters but silent as to the occasion for the meeting, walked in a few seconds in advance of Navy Sacretary Forrestal.

If you know why, do you know how to cure them?

IF NOT—

Consult with the foot specialist, Jim Edward (colored) whe is also the masseur at the Turkish bath at the Y.

Jim is a chiropodist and has had many years' experience in correcting arches, bunlons, corns and other defects of the feet. This is another public service rendered by the Y. Call or phone for appointment. Appointments made for homes, hotels, hospitals, offices, or at the Y second/floor.
